IMPORTANT TO ALL.

DR. SWAYNE,

The discoverer and compounder of the far-famed

Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry

and other valuable preparations, entered upon his professional career with the important advantage of a regular medical education in one of the oldest and best schools in Philadelphia, and, perhaps, in the world. He subsequently served a faithful term of practice in the Philadelphia Dispensary, and for many years attended in the Hospital. In these institutions he enjoyed the most ample opportunities of obtaining an insight into diseases in all their various forms, as well as for ascertaining the best methods of their treatment. In offering, therefore, to the people of the United States the fruits of his extensive professional experience in the medicine compounded as the best results of his skill and observation, he feels that he is but proffering a boon to every family throughout the land, resting, as he does, confidently in the merits and efficacious virtue of the remedies he herewith commends. The vast amount of testimony from all parts of the world has proven "DOCTOR SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY" the most efficacious remedy known, and it is admitted by our most eminent physicians, and all who have witnessed its wonderful healing properties. The WILD CHERRY in all ages of the world and in all countries where it is known has been justly celebrated for its wonderful medicinal qualities, but its great power to cure some of the worst and most ill-dressing diseases among us was never fully ascertained until the experiments of that skilful physician, Dr. Swayne, had demonstrated its high adaptation, in combination with Pine Tree Tar, and other equally valuable vegetable ingredients, which elegantly combined renders it a potion tenfold more certain and beneficial in curing all diseases of the throat, breast and lungs. DR. SWAYNES WILD CHERRY COMPOUND strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous and shattered constitution. If your druggist or storekeeper does not have it, do not be put off by any other remedy that may be offered, but send to us direct, and we will forward a half dozen to any address, freight paid, on receipt of the price, $1 per bottle, or $5 the half dozen. Address letters to DR. SWAYNE & SON, 330 North Sixth street, Philadelphia. No charge will be made for advice.

Ask Your Druggist for Them.

Females and all who value health should never be without DR. SWAYNE'S TAR AND SARSAPARILLA PILLS, as they purify the blood, remove all obstructions, cleanse the skin of all pimples and blotches, and bring the rich color of health to the pale cheek. Female irregularities are restored to a healthy condition. They are a certain cure for Sick and Nervous Headache. As a Dinner Pill, nothing can exceed them: take one, two, or three, as may be found necessary; unlike others, they neither gripe, produce nausea, or any other unpleasant sensation, while they are as powerful as it is possible for a medicine to be and be harmless. These Pills cleanse out the disordered humors, enrich and purify the blood, remove all unhealthy bilious secretions of the stomach and bowels, causing a perfectly healthy state of the system. They are certainly the best cathartic and antibilious medicine yet discovered; and we are determined that the sick shall have them at a price within the means of the poorest (25 cents a box of 30 Pills.) If your druggist or storekeeper has not got them, do not be put off by any others that may be offered in their place, but send to us direct, and we will forward a month on receipt of the price, 25 cents a box or five boxes $1.

Itching Piles

Is generally preceded by a moisture, like perspiration, distressing itching, as though pin worms were crawling in or about the rectum, particularly at night when undressing or in bed after getting warm. It appears in summer as well as winter, oftentimes shows itself around the private parts, and is not confined to males only, but is quite as frequent that females are now troubled, particularly in times of pregnancy, extending into the vagina, proving distressing almost beyond the power of endurance. Cases of long standing, pronounced incurable, have been permanently cured by simply applying

THE SUMMONS.

Jubilee! jubilee! Motherland, hail to thee!
Hail to thy glory, thy pride and thy worth!
All thy sons flock to thee, fly to thee, sail to thee,
Lovingly keeping the feast of thy birth.
Throw all the banners out!
Joyful hosannas shout!
Gather thine own from the ends of the earth.

Gather by millions, from lowland and highland—
Kneel at the shrines where our forefathers knelt.
Call all from mainland, and foreland, and island;
Where the figs ripen, or snows never melt:
Where the swift shuttles hum:
Where the mills dash and drum,
Norman, and Saxon, and Teuton, and Celt.

Come from the mountains where brood the fierce eagles!
Come from the groves where the mocking-birds call!
From the blue billows where drift the white seagulls,
Or where the red leaves of the prairie-rose fall.
Come while the starry-eyed,
Heaven-born, rainbow-dyed
Banner of Liberty streams over all.

Loyal to thee and thine, nation all-beautiful,
Nursed in thy bosom, or borne by the sea,
Come we wish reverent homage and dutiful,
Homeland so happy, united and free.
Hail to thy hundred years!
Forward! with songs and cheers,
Keeping the year of our land's jubilee!

MATCHMAKING.

"Get out my Sunday clothes," said old Corny O'Byrne, one evening when he returned from his work. "I'm goin' over to Peter Linskey's to-night."

"Musha, Corny, an' what are ye goin' for?" Judy asked, as she unlocked a large deal chest painted red, which stood near the fire-place, and carefully took out a blue frieze tail-coat, with bright metal buttons, a pair of light colored cord knee breeches, ribbed worsted stockings, a pair of strong shoes and a billycock hat, which, with a red cotton pocket handkerchief with a flowered border (which he carried in his hat,) and a stout blackthorn shillelah, constituted Corny's Sunday suit.

"Sure, I'm goin' to make a match between our Dermott an' Katie Linskey," he said at last in reply to his wife's question. "She's a purty colleen, an' the boy is mighty pleased with her, intirely."

"So she is, Corny, a laukie little girl, an' she'll have a snug fortune, maybe. Pether is a dacent honest man!"

"Faith, Judy, an' he is that same, or isn't Corny O'Byrne that would 'cut, shuffle, or dale' with him or his; an' Dermott tells me Katie likes him,"

"An' why wouldn't she, Corny? There's not as purity a boy in the parrish; nor a better," Judy said proudly.

"Thrue for ye, asthore; give us out that ould stockin', an' we'll make a match out of it this Shrovetide, with the blessin' o' St. Pathrick!" Corny replied.

From the furthest corner of the chest, Judy drew out carefully an old worsted stocking, and handed it to her husband, who weighed it in his hand, and then, with a sly wink, buttoned it into one of his pockets. "This 'ill do the business, Judy," he said, as he left the house, with many Bannaughth-Latha—God prosper, or be with you—from his wife.

Peter Linskey was a small farmer living about a quarter of a mile from Corny's cabin. He had several sons and one daughter, Katie, who was considered the "beauty" of the village of Ballymoyne. Her eldest brother was about to be married and bring his wife home; and her father considered it would be very advisable to get Katie married and settled down before the arrival of her sister-in-law; and Dermott O'Byrne—a fine strapping young man, very "steady" and good-natured—Old Peter thought would make a very good husband for his girl (especially as he was an only child,) if no better suitor offered.

When Corny O'Byrne reached Peter Linskey's cabin he put his head over the half door and said in Irish: "God save all here!" the customary form of greeting in that and many other parts of Ireland.

"God save ye kindly, Corny," Peter replied from the chimney corner; "come in and take a sate."

Corny entered with both his hands behind his back, took his seat on a three legged stool that Mrs. Linskey had pushed in front of the fire for him.

"Fine weather for the crop, Corny," Peter said, poking up the fire with his shoe. "An Mary, throw on a couple o' sods o' dry turf, an' sweep up the hearth, will ye?"

Mary did as her husband desired, and then going to a recess in the wall in the fireplace, took out from thence a new clay pipe and piece of tobacco. "Will ye light the pipe, Corney, she said, handing them to the old man, who took them with a nod and "Thankee kindly," and filled slowly, kindled with a coal from the hearth, blew a few whiffs in grave, dignified silence, and then handed it to Peter, who in equal silence smoked it for a few moments and then handed it back to Corney and proceeded to light his own pipe.

They both smoked steadily for a time, then Mrs. Linskey pulled a small table between them, produced from her chest a stone jar of potheen and a couple of craced glasses which she set on the table with a noggin of cold water; and taking up her pail proceeded to the barn to milk the cows.

"That's a purty colleen of yours, Pether!" Corny said after a long silence.

"Thrue for ye; an' a good, sensible little girl into the bargain; its happy's the man that'll get her," Peter replied, after due consideration.

"That's what I said myself; an' I come over to see if we can't make a match between my Dermott and herself!"-O'Byrne said, after another interval.

"He's a likely boy," pursued Peter, reflectively.

"Ye may well say that Peter, an' he'll make a good husband, no doubt, for he's a good son. What do ye say to it? Corney asked, leaning forward on his stool.

"I'm pleased"—

"God save all here!" said a harsh, grating voice, and a head appeared in the doorway.

"Good evening to ye, Pether!"

"Good evening, kindly," Peter returned. "Come in and take a sate, Tom."

The new comer then took a stool, and casting a questioning glance at Corny O'Byrne, proceeded to light his pipe and smoke for some minutes. He was a stout, hash-featured man with a loud voice. He was not much of a favorite in the village, and especially disliked by Corney O'Byrne—who never lost an opportunity of annoying Tom Dillon. He was a comfortable farmer and one of his sons had been "making up" to Katie Linsley some time before. After a silence, during which the three old men smoked energetically, Dillon cleared his throat two or three times and then said abruptly: "Pether I want to make a match between your little girl and my Martin; have ye anything to say agin it?"

"Sorra, one word, Tom; only me neighbor Corny O'Bryne an' myself were speaking o' the same thing when ye came in!" Peter replied, with a shrewd glance at them both.

"First come, first served, Pether," Corny said, shaking the ashes from his pipe by knocking his pipe against his thumb nail; "mind that!"

"To be sure, to be sure," Peter replied and there was another long pause.

"An' we may as well clinch the bargain at once," Corny continued.

"To be sure, to be sure," Peter again assented, smoking steadily.

"Ye have nothin' agin' my Martin, have ye, Pether Linskey?" Tom Dillon said, laying down his pipe

"Agin him? No; he's a nice dacent boy an' I have a great regard for him," Peter answered.

"An' he has a great regard for your little girl, an' sorra a day's good he'll do till he's married," ejaculated Tom, bringing his fist down on the table. "He's set his mind on it, an' I'll back him out.

"Turf and' tundther! Tom Dillon, didn't Pether Linskey tell you I came match-making for my Dermott?"

"Tundther an' turf, Corny O'Bryne, don't I tell you that I come to do the same thing for my Martin; an' I suppose a Dillon may ask a Linskey in marriage any day—an' he can afford it, too!" Tom added, slapping his pocket.

"An' let me tell ye, an O'Bryne can put down pound for pound with a Linskey any day; or for that mather with a Dillon," Corny said, with a scornful glance at Tom, who was in his working clothes. "Pether," ye know what I came for; what fortune are you goin' to give Katie?"

Peter took out his pipe, emptied it, proceeded to refillit leisurely, poked the fire, relit the pipe, and settled himself back in the corner, and said slowly: "Fortune, Corny! Katie is a fortune herself. I'm a poor man, an' the times is bad; an' beyond a new gown, a couple of fleeces of wool, an' a hank or so of yarn, I can't give any fortune!"

Corny looked astonished, and pushed back his stool, as much as to say that all further negotiations were useless; when Tom Dillon said, Never mind, Pether; there's them as'll be willin to take her without any fortune, an' can afford it, too!"

"Thrue for ye, Tom Dillon, an' one o' them is Dermott O'Bryne. We're not dependin' on a few bare pounds—not but it's well to have something to put by for the childer," he added cautiously.

"To be sure, Corney, to be sure," Peter assented.

"Well, Pether, is it to be me or Corny? Is a Dillon to be put behind the door for an O'Bryne? Isn't my Martin as likely a boy as there is in the barony? He'll take your colleen without a brass penny, an' do well for her. What do ye say to that?" Tom asked, slapping the table.

"Bedad, then, Tom, I'm in a fix intirely. Here's Corny, a dacint old man, with a fine steady gossoon of a son—he's first; an' here's yourself, an honest man an' a good neighbor—sorra better—an' sure Martin is the pride of the parish on a Sunday! I'm bothered intirely, an' what can I say, but settle it between ye! Whichever of ye can do the best for her, take her in the name of St. Patrick!" and Peter resumed his pipe and sank back into his corner.

The two old men eyed one another silently for a few minutes, then Dillon pulled a little bag from his pocket, opened it deliberately and took out another, from which he drew forth a third made of purple stuff, fastened with a piece of red braid. Very slowly, his eye still fixed on Corney, he pulled out a sovereign and laid it on the table. "Shew Pether Linskey what ye mane to do, Corny O'Bryne," he said.

Corny smiled scornfully, produced his old stocking, and taking from thence a five pound note put it beside him and nodded his head defiantly.

Tom drew forth four more sovereigns, clinked them one after another on the table, and nodded his head. Old Peter smoked away in his corner without uttering a word.

Corny waited for a moment, and then said: "Is that all you're going to do, Misther Dillon?"

Tom threw down another sovereign, Corny followed his example, till they had each laid twenty pounds upon the table.

"Is that all you're goin' to do, Misther Dillon?"

"In ready money, it is Misther O'Bryne."

"Then I bate ye at that," Corny cried, throwing down another pound. "I bate him in cash, Pether; do ye mind that?"

Peter nodded and smoked away.

"I'll take the girl in, an' share 'the best we have with her, an' give Martin two acres of land, an' a couple of bonives (little pigs)," announced Tom Dillon.

Dermot'll have my land when I'm gone, every rood," cried Corny.

"I'll give a heifer in, Twenty pounds, share of a house, two acres o' land an' a heifer. What do you say, Pether? Not bad for a colleen without a penny."

"Thrue for you, Tom," Peter assented. What'll you do Corny?"

"Twenty-one pound—down, when they're married, a house an' a home, a feather bed, an' the finest mule in the parish—that's what I'll do!"

"But the land—Tom is giving two acres," Peter observed; "think of that, Corny!"

"Dermot'll have the land afther me, an' enough to eat off it till I'm gone. I have no one but him. Tom Dillon has three more to provide for."

"An' plenty to do it with, an' I'll make it three acres, Pether, of the best upland in Ballymoyne," Tom replied.

"It's very fair, an' I'm obliged to ye, Tom," Peter said, slowly.

"I'll make it twenty-five down, an' throw in a heifer!" cried Corny.

"It's very dacent, Corny, an' I'm obliged to ye," Peter quietly observed, in the same tone.

"I'll throw in a calf!" exclaimed Dillon. "Twenty pound, three acres of land, a bonive, a heifer an' a calf. Now, Pether—done or not?"

"I think ye spoke of two bonives Tom?" Peter said quietly.

"No, no; only one. It's all I can spare; an' I think it's not bad, Pether!"

"Bedad, Tom, I think ye said a couple of bonives," Peter said again.

"Nabocklish, (never mid) Peter. I'll throw in a relatch (a whole brood) o' ducks—take it or lose it? Twenty-five pounds down the day they're married, a house an' home, feather bed, mule an' heifer, and a clutch o' ducks!" said Corney, putting his money back in his stocking.

"Faix, an' a clutch isn't bad," observed Peter. "They're better than a calf to them that hasn't a cow to feed it; an' Corny's is the best house, an' Kate'll have it all to herself. When your Matt an' James marry, it'll be mighty narrow for ye all!"

"James is going to America, Pether," said Tom.

"Well, that makes a differ. But isn't there anything else yer inclined to offer? Dermott is the best match at this minute," observed Peter.

"I'm done," said Tom. Then suddenly starting up, he cried: "Wait a minute; and ran out of the house, returning in a quarter of an hour, staggering under a sack of seed potatoes. "Thare, Corny O'Bryne, put that in your pipe and smoke it," he cried exultingly.

Corny at first sight of the sack, started to his feet and put on his hat. "Wait a minute," he cried: "I'll not be long," and running all the way home he was soon there.

"Get me a sack, Judy—the meal sack—an' be quick, asthore, he cried excitingly.

"Arra, be aisy Corny, shure an' the male is in it."

"Betther an' betther, cried Corny, going into the room which served as dairy; and without vouchsafing another word to the astonished Judy, he shouldered the sack and trotted off with it as fast as he could.

Completely out of breath, he reached Peter's bathed in perspiration; but on entering he unluckily tripped over the door step, and fell with the sack full length in the kitchen. The string round the neck of the gave way, and covered with the meal, he ground stammered breathlessly: "Th-there, Pe-pe-ether Linskey! Wh-woills the praities was gr-growing, the meal would keep them alive! W-hat d'ye say, Pe-pether?"

"Begorra, Corny, I say what I often said before, that yer a dacent man'an' your boy is welcome to Kate Linskey."

"What do you mean, Pether?" cried Tom Dillon.

"What I say, Tom; nor a more nor less. The childer might die o' the fargutha (a fainting brought on by hunger or over-fatigue without proper sustenance) while the praties was growin' Dermott O'Bryne can best provide my little girl with comforts an' he's welcome to her."

At that moment a merry laugh caused the three old men to look round, and Corny tried to scramble to his feet. In the doorway stood Katie Linskey, her hands pressed to her sides, and tears of mirth coursing down her pretty face. "I'm sorry for your trouble, Corny," she said advancing. "but I could not help laughing, you looked so quare;" and she burst into a fresh peal.

"Be quiet, Katie, an' come here," said Pether, beckoning his daughter to his side.

CORRECTION.—JUDGE PEARSON HAS DECIDED THAT WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, IS THE LAST DAY ON WHICH REGISTRATION CAN BE LAWFULLY MADE.

PERSONS NOT REGISTERED, AND ENTITLED THERETO SHOULD GIVE THIS MATTER IMMEDIATE ATTENTION.

GRANT VERSUS LINCOLN.

As Grant has been called a second Lincoln, and as both are alleged to be second Washingtons, it may not be amiss to call the attention of original Republicans to the difference of views entertained by Grant and Lincoln as to the use of soldiers. In his message in 1861, Lincoln said: "Elections controlled by military are not a reflection of popular sentiments."

"Ballots are the rightful and peaceful successors of bullets."

Noble words, but Grant and Cameron reverse the order; Bullets first, and the ballots next, if in favor of the bullet party.

OH FORNEY!

In 1872 Forney called a "Halt" on Grant, and supported Buckalew against Hartranft for Governor. For several years he was exiled to Europe, and in the meantime seems to have forgotten the noble words he once spoke. To show how much he is "mixed" we quote two paragraphs from the same issue of the Press:

"Amnesty and oblivion for the errors of the past are, as they should be, quiet and real acts of the Centennial year."

"Yet proscription, more terrible than prison stripes, the branding-iron, the plague, goes on in the South to-day unconcealed and defiant"

Comment is unnecessary.

Florida Probably Democratic.

A reporter of the Tribune called on Senator Jones, of Florida, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, recently, to obtain his views of the political situation and prospects in Florida. Mr. Jones said that although Florida had always gone Republican since the war, it was a closely contested State, and there was little doubt that Democrats would be successful in November, as the Republicans had two State tickets in the field and as the Democratic candidate for Governor was a very popular man. Mr. Jones said that a desire for a change in the national administration was prevalent throughout the South, and many persons who had heretofore voted the Republican ticket would this year cast their ballots for Tilden and Hendricks.

Misrepresent, falsify, lampoon as they will, the republican journals cannot rub out the record of a saving of THIRTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS to the people by the Democrats in Congress. Let Morton rage and Sherman explain, let Chandler curse and Cameron carp, this fact stands out in bold relief, uncontradicted and incontrovertible. Nay, more; the saving was effected in spite of the resolute and persistent opposition of the republicans. What say the people? Shall not a party which thus proves itself worthy of their confidence be trusted rather than the party which insists on extravagant expenditures and strives to hinder reform in the public service? Come now, let us reason together!—Mauch Chunk Democrat.

See that yourself and Democratic neighbor is Assessed before the 7th day of September.

The Press is constrained to say:

"There is such a thing possible as rendering popular government a mockery, and the combination of unmitigated knavery and ignorance which ruled in South Carolina before Chamberlain was made Governor came very near realizing that possibility. The whole country knows this and the causes. It was not because most of the voters were men of black skins and their leaders white politicians transplanted from the North, but because the former were so ignorant as to be pliant tools, and many of the latter utterly unscrupulous."

Yet Forney would continue the rule of the rascally "carpet-baggers" and "ignorant negroes. What consistency!

"When a man turns a traitor to the land of his birth, and takes up arms against it, should he ever again be placed in a position of honor or profit?"—Clinton Republican.

Ask Grant. He promoted Long-street, sent Orr of South Carolina as Minister to Russia,—made Ackerman of Georgia his Attorney General,—and has made the guerrilla Mosby his house pet.

By the way when did the Republican party ever support a Democratic Union soldier.

An Apt Illustration.

In discussing political questions a few weeks ago a Benton Township farmer illustrated the absurdity of seeking reform by putting Hayes at the head of the Cameron, Boss Shepherd, Kemble, Spencer and Babcock rings, instead of Grant, as follows: "When a hen has set on her nest so long that the eggs have become rotten, what is the use of trying to mend the matter by putting a new hen into the old nest?"

A GREAT SAVING.

We all know that Indian wars are expensive, because traders and sutlers must live. Therefore it costs an average of one million of dollars to kill an Indian. Our tax-payers will be glad to learn that the Government has saved a million of dollars because recently sun stroke killed an Indian, in New York.

DESERTIONS.

By a report of the Adjutant General of the U. S. army we learn that in five years 30,000 men have deserted from the army; that last year 2,500 deserted. This is a proportion of one out of five, and is about the ratio of Republicans who are leaving their camp.

It is said that Carl Schurz is going to support Hayes for President. This is doubtless a continuation of last year's bargain, by which he sold his influence to the Republicans for gold. It is a notorious fact that Schurz was paid $10.000 in gold to stump Ohio for Hayes. What his figure is to be this year has not yet been stated.

September 7th is the last day on which assessments can be made in time for the election.

The Democratic Convention of New York on Wednesday last unanimously nominated Ex. Gov. Seymour for Governor. If he accepts he will carry the state like a whirlwind.

Be sure that every Democrat i your township is assessed before the 7th day of September.

GEN. WADE HAMPTON.

The Republicans who delight in honoring Gen. Longstreet, Ackerman, guerrilla Mosby and other prominent secessionists, are especially hostile to Gen. Wade Hampton, the Democratic nominee of South Carolina. His personal character, his purity and ability—are as unquestioned as that of his grandfather, who won immortal renown in the Revolutionary war. Last week we published the noble declarations of the South Carolina Democracy, and the public are familiar with Gen. Hampton's speech of acceptance. But we now publish a letter written by him in 1868 explaining his position as to the issues, results and consequences of the war. From this letter it will be seen that Gen. Hampton cordially accepted the result of the war, He says:

The main issues involved in the war were Secession and Slavery—the first, the primary one, the latter brought in at a later period. In regard to these, I adopt fully and without reservation the principles announced by the late National Convention in New York, and in the words of the platform promulgated there, I consider "these questions as settled forever." I accept this as the result accomplished by the war, and as its logical and legitimate consequence. This I have done from the day the war closed, and I have counselled our people to look upon it in the same light. I was strongly in favor of the action taken by this State conferring on the negro equal civil rights with the white man; and more than a year ago I advocated the policy of giving to him as soon as we had the power to do so legitimately, suffrage based on qualification. The Democratic Convention held here in April last recognized him as "an integral part of the body politic," and declared that it would, when our party came into power, grant him partial suffrage. The State Central Club has just reaffirmed this declaration, and I have no doubt but that this declaration is sustained by a vast majority of the white citizens of the State. We regard the Reconstruction acts as unconstitutional, but we look for their overthrow, not by violence, but, in the language of a resolution unanimously adopted by the Democratic Party in Convention assembled, "by constitutional agencies and peaceful remedies alone." We invoke a decision on the constitutionality of these acts from the only tribunal competent to pronounce on them—the Supreme Court of the United States; and we were prepared in good faith to abide by that decision. It may not be inappropriate to correct a misrepresentation widely spread by radical papers touching these acts. In these I have been charged with having dictated that portion of the Democratic platform relating to reconstruction This charge I have more than once denied, and I do so again most emphatically The sense in which I spoke of the words "unconstitutional, revolutionary and void," as being my plank in the platform, referred to them as constituting the plank to which I, as well as any other Southerner, clung for safety.

The letter concludes as follows:

If the people of the North wish to build up a strong and lasting Union, let them be magnanimous and generous to the South; let them confide more fully than they have done, to the honor of our people, and they will meet with a heartfelt response. The future destiny of the Republic is in the hands of the North, and upon their action it depends whether there is again to be a Union, based on fraternal feelings, or one held together by the iron bands of military rule.

You must be assessed before September 7th or lose your vote.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

The mass of our population is composed of laboring men and farmers. They have a direct interest in all the questions involved in the pending campaign. If a Democratic Congress have cut down the National expenditures $30,000,000,—or, in other words nearly one dollar for every man, woman, and child in the nation, it is a practical reform.

In this connection we desire to call the attention of reading men to one point, and that is the land grants made by the Republican party to railways and corporations. On this subject the two platforms read as follows:

"We reaffirm our opposition to further grants of the public lands to corporations and monopolies, and demand that the national domain be devoted to free homes for the people."—Cincinnati Platform.	"Reform is necessary to put a top to the profligate waste of public lands, and their diversion from actual settlers by the party in power, which has squandered 200,000,000 acres upon railroads alone, and out of more than thrice that aggregate his disposed of less than a sixth to tillers of the soil."—St. Louis Platform.

Practice is better than promise, and the voters are interested in knowing the record of each party on this important question. We find that the Republican party have presented to monopolies 274,758 square miles of territory, equal to 211 states the size of Rhode Island, or an Area greater than Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio and Indiana has been taken from settlers.

Our opponents cannot contradict the accuracy of the following table:

Total not reserved for free homes	175,845,405
Total number of acres bestowed in land grants since 1827	206,000,000
Granted by Democr tic party in 34 years	30,154,593
Granted by Republican party in 15 years	175,845,405
Democratic grants per annum	1,000,000
Republican grants per annum	12, 00,000

Republican land grants	Sq. miles. 274,758	Area of States.	Sq. miles.
		Maine	35,000
		New Hampshire	9,300
		Vermont	10,000
		Massachusetts	7,800
		Rhode Island	1,000
		Connecticut	4,700
		New York	47,000
		New Jersey	8,000
		Pennsylvania	46,000
		Delaware	2,10 0
		Maryland	11,000
		Ohio	41,000
		Indiana	33,800
			256,200

It will thus be seen that the pretence of the Republican party of opposition to further land grants is a sham, and is not warranted by its past practice. The pledge of the Democracy on this subject is clear and distinct, and will be kept if the people elect Tilden and Hendricks.

THE FIRST BLACK EYE.—Beamish, who is an aspirant for senatorial honors, in the upper senatorial district of Luzerne county, has received his first political black eye. He has a rival for the position in the person of James Mahon, a young Scranton attorney, who has worsted him in securing control of the vigilance committees, which is considered a strong point in securing the nomination. Tom Loftus also proposes having a hand in the fight, and the contest is growing interesting.—Hazleton Sentinal.

Fire.

Sunbury, Aug. 26.—John King's house at this place burned down this morning about half past 10 o'clock. It is supposed it caught by a match, as the little boy of Chas. King says he was in the house some little time before it took fire, and was playing with matches. He had no insurance on the house. All his household goods were destroyed; also a gold watch and bonds to the amount of $5,000.

IMPORTANT TO LANDLORDS, AND OTHERS.

It may be through ignorance that keepers of hotels, inns, boarding houses and restaurants have not complied with the law which we publish below. J. F. HARTRANFT.

The Lehigh & Eastern.

On the 24th ult., ground was broken at Matamoras in Pike county for the Lehigh & Eastern Railway. It is intended by this road to connect with the Danville, Hazleton & Wilkes Barre at Hazleton. President Simon P. Kase cast the first shovel full of earth with the following remarks appropriate to the occasion:

Gentlemen: We are present here for the purpose of breaking for the construction of the wanted link to complete the chain of railroads, reaching from Halifax and Boston to San Francisco, directly through the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, and upon this occasion we, the miniature creators, having become convinced of the importance of the present undertaking, it behooves us to look up to him, the Creator, who plants worlds in infinite space and may be seen in lightning's the flash, for that blessing so essential to our success, that without which our efforts may all be in vain.

But in imitation of the Creator of all things, we may presume from the spark of divinity within us, to create his improvement, which will give bread to the hungry, happiness to the pleasure-seekers and wealth to untold thousands yet to be born.

And in behalf of the Lehigh & Eastern Railway Company permit me to cast the first shovel full of earth over which may untold millions of treasure be carried together with millions of passengers for all time to come.

A Cold Blooded Murder.

Shooting a neighbor for a few apples—excitement and threats of lynch law.

Wilksbarre, Pa., August 28.—On Saturday afternoon the town of Nanticoke, six miles from here, was the scene of an unprovoked murder, under circumstances of a peculiarly distressing nature.

The victim of the tragedy was a young man named George Sheath, a prominent member of the Odd Fellows' fraternity, widely known and highly esteemed for his personal worth. He boarded with a widow lady named Warren, the yard of whose residence adjoined that of a Mr. Trayer. In front of Mrs. Warren's premises and outside of the fence, stands an apple tree, one-fourth of which hangs over the lot owned and occupied by Trayer, who claims sole possession of the fruit. Just previous to the tragedy Sheath climbed the tree to knock off some apples for his boarding mistress, when he was attacked with stones by a son of Mr. Trayer's, a young man nineteen years old. He ordered Sheath down from the tree, but Sheath did not obey, whereupon young Trayer drew a revolver and, taking deliberate aim, shot him in the abdomen. Sheath fell instantly to the ground and shortly after expired.

The most intense excitement prevailed among the citizens of Nanticoke, who threatened to lynch the murderer. He was rescued by the police, and late at night was safely lodged in the county jail in this city.

Molly Maguires to be Hanged.

SENTENCE OF DEATH PRONOUNCED ON SIX MURDERERS.

POTTSVILLE, August 28.—This morning the sentence of death was passed upon the convicted Mollie Maguire murderers in the court here. A knowledge that they were to be sentenced caused the court room to be more densely packed than ever before. Not less than 300 ladies were present. Judge Green sentenced Thomas Munley, the murderer of Thomas Sanger, and Judge Pershing pronounced the doom of James Carrol, James Boyle, James Roarity and Hugh McGehan, the assassins of Policeman B. F. Yost, of Tamaqua. They all protested their innocence of the crime for which they were condemned.

Munley, upon whom solitary confinement has evidently produced a terribly depressing effect, asked that the death warrant be signed and he be sent over as soon as possible, as he "didn't want to live much longer." He also made the curious statement that he was sinning every day in jail.

Judge Dreher, at Mauch Chunk, this afternoon sentenced to death Alexander Campbell, convicted of the murder of John P. Jones.

All the cases will be taken to the Supreme Court on writs of error.

The republicans will now have to take their "railroad wrecker" epithet back again with compound interest. It fits snugly to the hide of ex-Gov. Morgan their candidate for governor of New York. In one single operation while he was in the State Senate he made $1,150,000. Oh, he is an artist!

If you have been drinking too much, which however you should never do, a dose of Dr. Bull's Vegetable Pills will place you in a good condition again.

In Java a fruit tree is planted on the birth of each child; in Biscay a landowner is obliged to put down two plants for every tree he fells; in Japan every tree cut down must be replaced by another.

OVERHANGING FRUIT. IMPORTANT DECISION.—An Important decision, of interest to all who reside in cities, towns or villages, was recently made in the Lebanon county courts, by Judge Henderson. A man was indicted for an assault and battery on a neighbor because he claimed the fruit on the branches of the tree overspreading prosecutor's lot. Judge Henderson said that every owner of land is the owner of it from his line upward as far as he desires to make claim of it. This being the law the prosecutor had the right to the fruit on the branches extending over his lot. He might even have sawed them off. The decision is important at this particular time and is generally misunderstood by the people.

A Sense of Weariness

is often felt by persons who cannot locate any particular disease. If they work, it becomes labor; if they walk, they soon tire; mental effort becomes a burden, and even joys are dimmed by the shadow of this weakness which is cast over their lives. Recourse is had sometimes to stimulants of a dangerous character. The advice of physicians to refrain from active labor produces no happy results. Why? The system is debilitated and needs to be built up properly. Peruvian Syrup will do this very thing. Like the electric current, it permeates the entire system, and harmonizing with the corporeal functions, it raises up the enfeebled and brings the color to the cheek again, and hope to the despondent. It does its work promptly and well. Sold by all druggists.

How to Vanquish the Stomach's Tormentor.

If the Enemy of mankind was permitted to exert his diabolical ingenuity in the invention of a new disease, he could scarcely devise one more worthy of his genius than dyspepsia. The dyspeptic sufferer is tormented by symptoms resembling those of almost every known malady, and is often worried into monomania by these conflicting and perplexing manifestations. A favorite though absurd hallucination of the victim of chronic indigestion is that he or she has heart disease. Dyspepsia has often been pronounced incurable, but experience has shown that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will vanquish it, together with the constipation and bilious derangement which usually accompany it. Diseases of the kidneys and supposed rheumatic pains are also frequent concomitants of dyspepsia, but they, too, succumb to the above named invaluable corrective. September 1m.

Worthy of Remembrance.

Why will you suffer violent pain, or be made uncomfortable, distressed in mind or body, when you can be instantly relieved and quickly cured by Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters. The ordinary Porous Plaster is an article of merit, yet its action is too slow, requiring days and weeks of continuous wear to effect a cure. Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster, being a great improvement over them, relieves you instantly and cures you quicker than any known plaster, liniment or compound.

Their action is more powerful than electricity and more certain. They are purely vegetable contain no mineral or metallic poisons. Their composition and properties are founded upon true medical skill, and are in no sense a patent medicine. E. F KUNKEL'S BITTER WINE OF IRON.

This truly valuable tonic has been so thoroughly tested by all classes of the community that it is now deemed indispensible as a tonic medicine. It rests but little, purifies the blood and gives tone to the stomach, renovates the system and prolongs life. Everybody should have it.

For the cure of weak stomachs, general debility, indigestion, diseases of the stomach, and for all cases requiring a tonic.

This wine includes the most agreeable and efficient salt of iron we possess—citrate of magnetic oxide, combined with the most energetic of vegetable tonics—yellow Peruvian bark.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?
If you do, try Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron.
I only ask a trial of this valuable tonic.

Beware of counterfeits, as Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is the only sure and effective remedy in the known world for the permanent cure of dyspepsia and debility, and as there are a number of imitations offered to the public, I would caution the community to purchase none but the genuine article, manufactured by E. F. Kunkel, and having his stamp on the cork of every bottle. The very fact that others are attempting to imitate this valuable remedy proves its worth and speaks volumes in its favor. Get the genuine. E. F. Kunkel's.

Sold only in $1 bottles. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. E. F. Kunkel, Proprietor, 259 North Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

BURGLARY.—The night was dark and stormy. The lightning flashed in lurid streaks across the heavens. It was the witching hour of about half past nine, when a certain neighborhood of the town of Bloomsburg was suddenly startled by cries of "Help!" and the announcement from a second story back window that a man was trying to break into the house. In response to the call several brave young men who happened to be not far distant armed themselves for the conflict. One took a hammer and another a lantern and started for the scene of action. On their way they were encountered by another neighbor who had fortified himself with an umbrella and a revolver, and who nervously demanded of them some information as to where the "man" was. Cautiously the party advanced, with their lantern blazing brilliantly as a target for the robber to shoot at, if he should happen to be armed. As they neared the burglarized abode they observed a man on the front porch quietly smoking a cigar, and after capturing him and carefully examining his person they discovered him to be——never mind names; it was a perfectly harmless young gentleman who had kindly gone to inform the family that the head of the house was called away from town and that they should not be alarmed if he did not return. Explanations were made, and the "burglar" and his captors departed.

HORSE THIEVES ABOUT!

AN EXCITING CHASE.

The large number of horses which have been stolen in our county lately should put our readers on their guard. In fact, if the people would take the COLUMBIAN and keep track of events, fewer losses would ensue and detection of thieves would be easier.

On last Friday C. R. Funston, a livery stable keeper at Catawissa, was induced by a man giving his name as Levi Gable to hire him his best horse, buggy and harness for the ostensible purpose of going to Orangeville, and from there to Jerseytown, to return Saturday afternoon. The "rig" stopped for supper at the Exchange, and has not been definitely traced since. The man, who called himself Levan, was generally acquainted in the neighborhood, and alleged that he had been working for Wm. Hollingshead, in the valley, and spoke of the latter's having come to Funston's for coal. It is alleged that he goes by the alias of John Whipple.

On Saturday last a horse of Douglas Hughes was also stolen. Now last harvest Mr. Hughes had about $80 stolen from him by an employee named George Fetterman. Learning that he had a sweet-heart in the wilds of Sullivan, Mr. Hughes, reinforced by Mr. Funston, started in that direction in pursuit. Just beyond Sonestown a man on horseback was about passing them when Mr. Hughes suddenly recognized his horse and the rider. The latter started on a run—the buggy was turned in a twinkling and a shot was fired by Funston, which is believed to have taken effect in the criminal's arm. The chase became exciting. Hughes got out—so did a spoke—for Sullivan roads are macadamized with upright stones. But Funston's pony was gaining on the fugitive, and he escaped to the woods. Search was instituted for him, and about 5 o'clock on Monday afternoon he was found in a blackberry thicket, curled up like a snake. On seeing his pursuers he demanded to see the warrant. A revolver convinced him, and he went quietly towards Laporte. Out West he wouldn't have got out of the woods. This shows our superior civilization. He was promptly lodged in jail and handcuffed; but if the jail is no better than ours he need not stay longer than he chooses.

$75 reward is offered by Mr. Funston for the return of his property, and $25 for the capture of the man.

See that yourself and Democratic neighbor are assessed before the 7th day of September.

It is about time our County was thoroughly organized. Our opponents are hard at work in every direction, and the party organization is like a log at sea.

Mr. Rumsey, conductor on the L. & B. R. R. was very severely injured on Friday last, having his right hand most terribly mangled. Dr. Turner was immediately called, and says the hand will be saved.

Slang. It is justified by judicial precedents. In Pennell v. Gruff, Chief Justice Gibson used the following language: "Neither is allowed to get the whip hand and souse the other in costs, by starting before he was ready."

The Tilden Reform Club met at the Opera House on Wednesday evening and perfected its organization. Col. Freeze in a thought-address reviewed the general issues of the campaign. He was followed by Hon. C. R. Buckalew. He expressed himself sanguine of success in November.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—Willie DeLacy, of Scranton, an interesting lad eight years of age and an only son of Capt. DeLacy, was thrown under a moving coal train while endeavoring to get on it in the vicinity of Scranton, on Thursday the 17th inst., the wheels mangling and mutilating his limbs in a horrible manner. It was found necessary to amputate the left leg above the knee, and all but one of the toes of his right foot. The lad is very weak, but may recover. Another warning.—Hazleton Sentinel.

DEMOCRATIC POLE RAISING.—On Saturday next, September 2, at six o'clock in the afternoon, the Democracy of Bloomsburg will inaugurate the campaign in this county by erecting a large Hickory Pole at Geiger's, on the corner of East and Railroad streets. Addresses appropriate to the occasion will be made. Let there be a full turn-out.

On Monday evening there will be another rally at the Opera House, beginning at 8 o'clock. Mr. Brockway will address the Club. Distinguished speakers from abroad are expected. Keep the fires burning. Let Bloomsburg at least show our friends in the County that we are armed and ready for November fight. The Republicans want a quiet campaign. We want one that will arouse and bring to the polls every man who is opposed to Grantism, and radical corruption and robbery.

BOOK NOTICE

We are indebted to J. W. Feree, A. M., Professor of Nat. Science and Higher Mathematics in Bloomsburg Normal School, for a very interesting little volume entitled "The Falls of Niagara, and Scenes around them." The book is written in a vividly descriptive style for which the Prof. is noted, and shows that the author was inspired with a keen sense of admiration at the grandeur of his subject. We predict a large sale. The Christian Advocate of New York says of the book.

"A charming 12mo, of 152 pages, with twelve photographic illustrations, and furnishing the most thrilling, impressive, and instructive description of the "King of Cataracts" which we have ever read.

It is not often that traveling street shows amount to much, but on Friday last a wandering Italian gave an exhibition on the corners that was quite wonderful. He had a cage containing two paroquets, two other birds that looked like bullinches, and a number of mice. One of the paroquets fired off a pistol, and when different pieces of money were placed before it, it struck a bell as many times as their were cents in the piece. The mice performed a number of interesting tricks on a sort of trapeze. One of them stole a spoon lying on the platform and carried it to his cage. The trainer said the mouse was named Ben Butler. Altogether, the display of intelligence by these little birds and animals was very remarkable.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

On Monday morning last, at about half past two, the startling cry of fire was heard, and in a few moments all the bells in town were ringing out their wild alarums. It did not take long to ascertain where the fire was. When first discovered the rear of the buildings on the north east corner of Main and Iron steets were in flames. The fire soon spread to the clothing store of A. J. Evans the grocery store of W. H. Brown and the jewelry store of Louis Bernhard and did not abate until all three buildings were reduced to ashes. Mr. Bernhard succeeded in removing his property from the front room, except a large iron safe, which contained most of his valuables. On Monday afternoon it was taken from the ruins and opened, and the contents found somewhat tarnished but not ruined. Mr. Bernhard's loss is about six hundred dollars, nearly covered by insurance. A. J. Evans estimates his loss from eight to nine thousand dollars. Insurance, $6,500. W. H. Brown lost all his store goods and some household goods. Loss not estimated. We have not learned the loss of Mr. Bates, who had a shoe shop over Evans.

But for the Friendship Fire Company, which was promptly on the ground, and our enterprising townsman, George Risewick, who supplied the engine with water from his sprinkler, the fire would have been far more disastrous than it was. The frame building on the south side of Main street occupied by C. C. Marr as a store and dwelling, and Simon C. Shive's block, would certainly have burned but for them; the brick store and dwelling of D. A. Creasy could hardly have been saved. In fact, it was on fire several times, and the window casings towards the fire were burned out, but by the judicious use of water the firemen controlled it and saved the building. The Friendship engine is a good one, and if we had any way of supplying it with water it would do more effective work than it does now, having to depend on the sprinkler and buckets. A Hook and Ladder Company could have helped considerably by throwing over the walls of the burning buildings. Perhaps this last disaster will cause our citizens to talk about water works for a few days, after which we need not expect to hear any more about them until the next fire.

The origin of the fire is unknown. There were no stoves burning in any of the buildings, and the lateness of the hour at which the conflagration started makes it look as though it were the work of an incendiary. There is no proof of this, however. A. J. Evans will continue his business on the corner of Main and Iron streets, in the store formerly occupied by W. F. Hess. Louis Bernhard has moved into Cadman's store room. It is probable that the burnt corner will be rebuilt at once.

AN HISTORICAL FACT.—Every agent who has been steadily selling the Improved $20 Home Stead Sewing Machine for three years, owns his dwelling house, has a good account in bank, is clear of debt, and has money at interest.—the natural consequence of securing a good agency for superior goods at the lowest prices. A good first-class Sewing Machine, most useful—reliable at all times, easy to understand and control, the same size and does the same work as any machines that sell at four times the price. There is no machine at any price better, or that will do finer or more work, and certainly none so low in price by many dollars. The Homestead is widely known and used in thousands of families in the Eastern and Middle States, and daily becoming popular in the West. It will save its cost several times over in one season, doing the work of the family, or will earn four or five dollars a day for any man or woman who sews for a living. It is the strongest machine made, is ready at all times to do its work, makes the strongest and finest stitch yet invented, and is fully acknowledged as the Standard Family Sewing Machine. Price, complete for domestic use, $20, delivered at your door, no matter how remote you may reside. Business permanent and honorable, with more certain and rapid sales, and larger profits than any other. Extraordinary liberal offers made to local or traveling agents where we have none established; or, if there is no agent near you, send your order direct to the factory. Address John H Kendall & Co., 659 Broadway, New York. May 5, 76 1y.

WHERE TO ADVERTISE.

A. T. Stewart says the best advertising mediums he has ever found "are the old established organs of the two political parties, at the several county seats throughout the Union." "These," he says "reach every family of the least account in their several counties, and are more carefully read than any other class of journals." If Mr. Stewart's judgment is of value, there is no difficulty in deciding which paper it is for the interest of business men to advertise in. The COLUMBIA DEMOCRAT, upon which this paper is partially founded, was established in 1838, and the COLUMBIAN now enjoys a wider circulation and greater influence than it ever did. It goes weekly into two thousand families in Columbia and adjoining counties, and by most of them is read from the first to the last line. It is the only recognized exponent of nearly five thousand Democratic voters in the county. It gives advertisements a tri-daily display, that makes them attractive to its patrons, thus ensuring greater certainty that they will peruse them. While its circulation is undoubtedly much the largest in the county, the advertising rates of the COLUMBIAN are no higher than those of other papers with barely half and several not one-fourth the number of subscribers. Facts like these speak for themselves. No shrewd business man will neglect to insert his advertisements in the COLUMBIAN if

Tilden's War Record.

MR. HEWITT'S ELOQUENT REPLY TO KASSON —A SILLY SLANDER REFUTED FOREVER.

In the night session of Monday, in the House, Mr. Hewitt, of New York, obtained the floor about 5 o'clock in the morning to reply to Mr. Kasson's attack on Governor Tilden. He spoke of Mr. Kasson's speech as a painful surprise and a melancholy experience.

He could hardly have believed that that gentleman, with his intellectual endowments, could have so far abdicated his own self-respect as to have indulged in the partisan and malicious statements which he had made. He (Mr. Hewitt) approached the subject as he would take hold of a slimy snake, with a desire to get rid of it. The first charge was that Mr. Tilden had been a secessionist. It was possible that Mr. Tilden might, before the lawless strife, have entertained views in common with Jefferson, Madison, Jackson and other great men, who had given construction to the Constitution and government of the country. At the outbreak of the rebellion he (Mr. Hewitt) was in daily and almost hourly communion with Gov. Tilden, and he knew that no more loyal or patriotic heart was then beating in the United States. When the first call for troops came, Tammany Hall, which had not then fallen into the hands of the ring, raised a regiment. The Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall (W. D. Kennedy) was colonel of that regiment, and it was officered by members of the Tammany Society. On account of his own (Mr. Hewitt's) health he had been unable to go, but he had sent his nephew as one of the officers of that regiment.

Mr. Lapham (N. Y.) After the fall of Fort Sumter did not Mr. Tilden refuse to sign the call for the great Cooper Institute meeting and refuse to attend the meeting?

Mr. Hewitt.—It is not true that he refused to sign it, and he did attend the meeting. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Mr. Samuel Sloan, then a member of the Union Safety Committee of New York, applied to Mr. Tilden at a time when he was engaged in the trial of a case, to affix his name to the call, and his reply was, "I am busy just now; send me the resolutions after the trial of this case, and if they are entirely proper I will sign the call." The call was never sent to him, but when the meeting took place he attended it, and the resolutions received his absolute and unqualified approval. I say now that Tammany Hall raised a regiment for the war, and that Gov. Tilden was a large contributor to the fund.

Mr Conger.—How much?

Mr. Hewitt.—I am not going to state dollars and cents. Patriotism is above dollars and cents in some quarters.

Mr. Conger.—It is denied in the public press that Mr. Tilden ever contributed one cent for any such purpose. [Derisive laughter on the Democratic side.] Will the gentleman state when and where and to what amount he ever contributed to the raising of a regiment?

Mr. Hewitt.—I state when in stating that the Tammany regiment was raised, and I state where when I say the city of New York. I do not state the amount, because Democrats did not carry the hat around. [Laughter.]

Mr. Davy (Rep. N. Y.)—I supposed we had settled all our difficulties, and this was a sort of love feast.

Mr. Randall (Dem. Pa.)—The love feast is to be on the 4th March next.

Mr. Hewitt.—Subsequently to that period no man in New York was more frequently called into counsel there and in Washington than Mr. Tilden. I know that he was twice called for by President Lincoln, and came to Washington and held cheerful conversation with him, resulting in the early and rapid filling of the quota of the State of New York, and I know that during the whole of that trying time there never was a doubt as to the loyalty and patriotism of Samuel J. Tilden. As to the resolution of the Chicago Convention, quoted by Mr. Kasson against Mr. Tilden, declaring the war a failure, he (Mr. Kasson) should have known that within a month past a public and positive statement had been made by Mr. Manton Marble, the secretary of the committee on resolutions, that Gov. Tilden opposed that resolution publicly and privately, and it was within his own (Mr. Hewitt's) knowledge that Gov. Tilden urged Gen. McClellan (after his nomination) to make such a declaration in his letter of acceptance as would nullify that portion of the Chicago platform.

Mr. Randall—Which was "the Union at all hazards."

Mr. Hewitt.—Those were the words inserted in the Chicago Convention. Gov. Tilden declared that the adjustment of the controversy between the North and South on any other basis than the restoration of the Union was impossible, that the moment any party went out of the Union the question must be settled by war, and that the war must be prosecuted until the question was settled. These declarations of his were published in the New York and Chicago papers at the time of the convention, and that is my answer to the statement of the gentleman from Iowa that Governor Tilden never made any declaration in favor of the prosecution of the war, and that he was a disunionist. In regard to the insinuation connecting Gov. Tilden's name with that of W. M. Tweed, he (Mr. Hewitt) said that Gov. Tilden had for more than three years, like a hound on the scent, followed the members of the ring patiently, secretly, delightedly. He knew Tilden's untiring efforts day and night; he knew how he tracked these people to their dens of iniquity and finally dragged them forth to public execration. [Applause.]

Mr. Davy asked whether subsequently to the exposure of Tweed, Mr. Tilden had not met Tweed at the Rochester Convention and had not raised his voice against Tweed taking a seat?

Mr. Cox (to whom Mr. Hewitt yielded for an answer) replied that there was no necessity for Tilden's doing so, as Tweed was not in the convention.

Mr. Hewitt—The bare, naked fact is this: There was war, war to the knife, between Gov. Tilden and Tweed, and it ended in the defeat and exile of Tweed. [Loud applause on the Democratic side.] That is all there is about it. I call the House to witness that I have answered, and am willing to answer, every question bearing on the merits of this case. No one will intimate that there was the slightest intimacy, personal or political, at any time, between Samuel J. Tilden and William M. Tweed. There never was. There was that association which comes from the enforced appointment of men on committees from their living in the same community and from belonging to the same party. But the one man stood in the community above and beyond suspicion, and the other finally by detestation. I defy the gentlemen to lay their hands upon a dishonest dollar in the possession of Samuel J. Tilden. The people whom he served are his friends to-day, and his best friends; and it is the service which he rendered to them that will, notwithstanding the insinuations of the gentleman from Iowa, give him the vote of those great Western States within whose borders he reconstructed highways which are to them, to-day, the arteries of commerce and blessings whose value cannot be properly estimated. Through the whole of his remarkable career he has been the wisest of men, he has been the truest friend, he has been the most zealous and earnest of patriots; he is to-day the wisest, the most accomplished statesman in the land, and he will, by the blessing of God, be one of the greatest Presidents of the United States, because he will have the opportunity to rescue this government from the hands of the incompetent and dishonest men who have controlled it so long, and have made it a reproach in the eyes of the civilized world. [Great applause from the Democratic side.]

The canned goods trade has been for some time a leading industry, though recently the production has not been so great as formerly. The late summer and autumn are the times of greatest activity in this industry, and an authority on the subject, writing of the trade for this year, says it is possible that the canning of some articles will be largely curtailed. A large crop of peaches is anticipated and the tendency may be to over-produce canned peaches. Tomatoes yield plentifully and will be probably as plentifully put up. Most of the canned corn comes from Maine, where there is a luxuriant crop; but there are other brands as well as those from Maine that are growing popular. The lobster crop is good in Maine, especially in the famous fishing grounds of Penobscot Bay; but the Nova Scotia yield promises to be less than usual, and of small average size. There will, however, be plenty of lobsters for the home trade, the packers being sick of exporting them, having lost money on the foreign trade for the past two or three seasons. Pears, asparagus, succotash and many other articles have been coming into favor of late; so that it is almost as possible to furnish the table with a full list of vegetables and fruits in mid-winter or early spring as when they are in season. The canning industry has in fact worked a great change in this respect during late years. But like all other industries, it is possible to push it to extremes, so that in nearly every branch the market has at times been overstocked, resulting in loss to the packers. In this State, New Jersey and Delaware there are numbers of large canning establishments situated directly in the regions where their products grow, and as they get the cheapest supplies they are consequently able to pack at the least cost. In their respective branches, these establishments have come to supply the Philadelphia market almost to the exclusion of older ones located at a distance.

RAISING TOMATOES.—Burr tells us that the French mode of raising tomatoes is as follows: "As soon as a cluster of flowers is visible, they top the stem down to the cluster, so that the flowers terminate the stem. The effect is that the sap is immediately thrown into the buds next below the cluster, which soon push strongly and produce another cluster of flowers each. When these are visible, the branch to which they belong is also topped down to the level; and this is done five times successively. By this means the plants become stout and dwarf bushes, not above eighteen inches high. In order to prevent their falling over, sticks or strings are stretched horozontally along the rows, so as to keep the plants erect. In addition to this, all laterals that have no flowers, and after the fifth topping all laterals whatever, are nipped off. In this way the ripe sap is directed to the fruit, which acquires a beauty, size and excellence unattainable by any other means."

A MODERN GEORGE WASHINGTON.—The other morning a careless mason dropped a half brick from the second story of a building out on Ferry street on which he was at work. Leaning over the wall and glancing downward, he discovered a respectable citizen, with his silk hat scrunched over his eyes and ears, rising from a recumbent posture. The mason, in tones of some apprehension, asked: "Did that brick hit any one down there?" The citizen, with great difficulty extricating himself from the glove-fitting extinguisher into which his hat had been transformed, replied, with considerable wrath: "Yes, sir, it did; it hit me." "That is right," exclaimed the mason, in tones of undisguised admiration. "Noble man! I would rather have wasted a thousand bricks than have had you tell a lie about it."

POOR GIRLS.—The poorest girls in the world are those who have never been taught to work. There are thousands of them. Rich parents have petted them; they have been taught to despise labor, and depend on others for a living, and are perfectly helpless. If misfortune comes upon their friends, as it often does, their case is hopeless. The most forlorn and miserable women on the face of the earth belong to this class. It belongs to parents to protect their daughters from this deplorable condition. They do them great wrong if they neglect it. Every daughter should be taught to earn her own living. The rich as well as the poor require this training. The wheel of fortune rolls swiftly round—the rich are very likely to become poor and the poor rich. Well-to-do parents must educate their daughters to work; no reform is more imperative than this.

SINGULAR POISONING CASE.—This story comes from Alamance county, N. C.: A Dr. Hooper, a dentist, living in the northern part of the county, went to the breakfast table prepared to poison his wife, but for what reasons we have not learned. They were seated alone at the table. After pouring out the coffee, Mrs. Hooper was despatched out of the room on some pretext, and in her absence her husband poured into her cup a deadly mixture. She returned, and it happened that the doctor himself was called from the room for a moment. In his absence a fly fell into his cup, and Mrs. Hooper, wife-like, exchanged cups. The doctor returned, and drank his coffee almost at one swallow. He at once detected the singular taste of the beverage, and asked his wife if she had changed cups. She replied that she had, giving the reason for it, when he exclaimed, "Then I am a dead man!" and in a few minutes was a corpse.

The Hell Gate explosion, which was appointed for the Fourth of July last, is to come off in the latter part of September. For years the army engineers have been drilling under the rocks obstructing the channel between New York harbor and Long Island Sound, and the explosion of these mines is intended to break up the rocks, so that the obstructions can be removed and the channel be deepened. The work of tunneling under the rock is now all done, and nothing remains but the insertion of the cartridges. In the 172 piers supporting the rock, and in the rocky roof, over 3,500 holes of three inches diameter and various depths have been bored for the reception of the cartridges. Dynamite is to be used for the charges, and by the use of about 200 galvanic batteries all the charges will be exploded simultaneously.

What is Vegetine?

It is a compound extracted from barks, roots and herbs. It is Nature's Remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is purifying and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you good sweet sleep at night. It is a panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them Nature's sweet sleep,—as has been proved by many an aged person. It is the great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it. It relieves and cures all diseases originating from impure blood. Try the VEGETINE. Give it a fair trial for your complaints; then you will say to your friend, neighbor and acquaintance, "Try it; it has cured me."

RELIABLE EVIDENCE.

The following unsolicited testimonial from Rev. O. P. Walker, formerly pastor of Bowdoin Square Church Boston, and at present settled in Providence, R. I., must be deemed as reliable evidence. No one should fail to observe that this testimonial is the result of two years' experience with the use of VEGETINE in the Rev. Mr. Walker's family, who now pronounce it invaluable:

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 164 Transit St,
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

I feel bound to express with my signature the high value I place upon your VEGETINE. My family have used it for the last two years. In nervous debility it is invaluable, and I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, renovating tonic.

O. P. WALKER,
Formerly pastor of Bowdoin Square Church, Boston.

THE BEST EVIDENCE.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, pastor of the M. E. church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians; also those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of the Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, as there is no doubt about the curative power of VEGETINE.

NATICK, Mass., Jan. 1, 1873.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear sir—We have good reason for regarding your VEGETINE a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying; two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him as he had not enough vigor to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him VEGETINE and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where his limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but lately uses but little, as he declares he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,
E. S. BEST,
MRS. L. C. P. BEST.
